VI- Reading Comprehension (110 Marks)

110

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Tobey liked zoos. It was great for Tobey to see animals that didn't live around his house. Around his house, he could see cows or horses, but not zebras or lions. He could see birds, but not monkeys or alligators. Zoos were a fascinating way for Tobey to spend his weekend because he can learn more about animals. Now he prefers animal shelters to zoos.

Today, Tobey was trying to go to something a little different. He had learned that near his house there was an animal shelter. It wasn't a regular shelter. He had been to those before, where you could adopt dogs, cats, and even an occasional goat. This place had lions, tigers and bears.

As he arrived, he was surprised, because he heard lions even from the parking area. The place was small, but tidy. The volunteers working at the entry were very helpful. Tobey and his family toured the place at their own pace, examining the cages and habitats the animals lived in.

Tobey was immediately struck by the differences between this place and a zoo. Zoos had beautiful habitats set up for each animal, but you could not get near the animals at all. At this shelter, Tobey was almost close enough to reach out and touch the animals, but he couldn't because there were two fences between him and the animals. There weren't as many people, either, so it seemed more like a personal experience. The paths were narrow and covered with trees that made the animals feel more at home and gave them shade.

It was interesting to look a lion in the eyes when you could almost reach out and touch it. It was fun to watch the bears pace back and forth and wiggle their lips at you with great expressions. Then there were leopards lazing in the midday heat and monkeys grooming themselves.

Each animal had a story posted up on the side of their cage. Each had been rescued from streets or taken when they were no longer wanted. These were hard luck stories with a happy ending. Someone at this shelter had stepped up to take care of the animals, and now Tobey could enjoy meeting them and learn from them.

When it was finally time to go, Tobey and his family thanked the volunteers and made a donation. Shelters always needed money, food for animals, and help. It made them feel good to be helping out any way they could.

A) From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer: (5x 10=50 Marks)

27. What is the best title of the passage?
- a- Animal Shelters
 - b- Food for Animals
 - c- A Zoo Adventure

- a- homes
 - b- fences
 - c- covers
 - d- stores
29. What does the underlined word “them” in the (4th) paragraph refer to?
- a- trees
 - b- paths
 - c- animals
 - d- people
30. According to paragraph (3), the animal shelter is.....
- a- run by Tobey and his family.
 - b- taken care of by a group of volunteers.
 - c- full of workers who don't like to help visitors.
 - d- a huge place with a parking area and a lot of trees.
31. All the following statements are TRUE EXCEPT:
- a- Tobey liked zoos more than animal shelters.
 - b- Tobey went to the animal shelter with his family.

VII- Summary Making 60 Marks)Read the following passage, then do as required:

Metal detectors are devices that are used to find metals in the ground. They make magnetic waves which go through the ground and change when they hit metal. The beep or siren sound tells that the metal is close. Metal detectors have many advantages. First, detectors were meant to help miners. They were big. Now they are light and cheap. People use them to find lost rings on the beach. Also, metal detectors are used in airports, hotels and similar places to protect people from weapons. In addition, these devices save lives in other ways too. After wars, metal detectors are used to find bombs in the ground. Moreover, these devices can make clothes safer. It is funny but true. Most clothes are made in factories. Needles break and get stuck in clothes. Detectors scan clothes to prevent needles from poking people while trying them on.

VI- Reading Comprehension (110 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

It's a fact that most people don't like to fight or argue. It is just human nature to want to avoid a confrontation. However, throughout our lifetime, there will inevitably be some situations where we are called upon to defend our opinion on a topic against someone else's.

The ability to take a stand, and skillfully present your point of view is a fundamental skill that is needed in business, as well as other aspects of life. You may win some arguments and you may lose some. More often than not, you will come up with a negotiated agreement. But how you present your case and yourself, regardless of the outcome, will leave a lasting impression of who you are as a person and a leader. The first thing to remember is to be prepared for the argument. If you feel strongly about a topic, know it well. Take special measures to get the relevant facts and find out as much about the topic as you possibly can. Preparation is the only aspect of an argument or negotiation over which you have total control. You can never control what actually happens during an argument but being prepared can help you stand on firm ground.

In any serious discussion, it is not enough to simply understand your own point of view. It is equally, if not more important, to understand and never underestimate your opponent. It is important to understand that your opponent feels about his opinion as strongly as you feel about yours. Do not put down your opponent's ideas. Show politely that you understand, but that your opinion is different.

Throughout an argument, it is important to listen. Listening carefully and asking relevant questions show that you are truly involved in the discussion and allow you to receive important information that will eventually lead to an outcome. Be sure to listen with an open mind, even if you believe the other side is wrong.

Always keep your emotions under control. When arguments get emotionally-heated, both sides may lose control and the discussion process breaks down. No matter how strongly you feel about a topic, keep a calm voice. Sometimes it may even help to take a deep breath and count to ten.

Finally, accept the fact that some arguments do not have a clear-cut outcome. Know when enough is enough, and simply agree to disagree.

A) From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer: (5x 10=50 Marks)

28. Which of the following would be the best title of the passage?
- How to Stay Calm
 - How to Listen Carefully
 - How to Argue Effectively
 - How to Avoid Arguments
29. What does the underlined word 'which' in the 2nd paragraph refer to?
- facts
 - measures
 - impression
 - preparation
30. The underlined word 'fundamental' in the 2nd paragraph means:
- strange
 - flexible
 - necessary
 - complicated
31. To be prepared for an argument means:
- to attack your opponent's ideas.
 - to get facts about your topic and know it well.
 - to control what actually happens during an argument.
 - to get emotional while defending your opinion.
32. According to the passage, which of the following is NOT TRUE?
- In some situations, we will have to defend our own opinions.
 - How we present our case leaves a lasting impression on others.
 - We can disagree with others without showing disrespect.
 - All arguments must have clear-cut outcomes.

B) With reference to the passage, answer the following questions: (4 x 15=60 Marks)

33. What shouldn't you do in a serious discussion?

VII- Summary Making (60 Marks)

Read the following passage, then do as required:

Writing is one of the most important inventions of humanity. It allows us to record our history, ideas and discoveries. As writing developed, so did writing tools. The early cavemen used animal hair brushes to paint pictures on cave walls. The pictures usually told stories about their hunts. After several centuries, the Egyptians invented a simple kind of pen made of reed, which is a tall plant like grass. Later, the Chinese used metal tools to carve their characters into turtle shells and cattle bones. After many decades, people developed different writing tools such as fountain pens and ballpoint pens with tiny ink tanks in them. Only time will tell what writing tools our children and grandchildren will be using in the future.

VI- Reading Comprehension (110 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

It's a fact that most people don't like to fight or argue. It is just human nature to want to avoid a confrontation. However, throughout our lifetime, there will inevitably be some situations where we are called upon to defend our opinion on a topic against someone else's.

The ability to take a stand, and skillfully present your point of view is a fundamental skill that is needed in business, as well as other aspects of life. You may win some arguments and you may lose some. More often than not, you will come up with a negotiated agreement. But how you present your case and yourself, regardless of the outcome, will leave a lasting impression of who you are as a person and a leader. The first thing to remember is to be prepared for the argument. If you feel strongly about a topic, know it well. Take special measures to get the relevant facts and find out as much about the topic as you possibly can. Preparation is the only aspect of an argument or negotiation over which you have total control. You can never control what actually happens during an argument but being prepared can help you stand on firm ground.

In any serious discussion, it is not enough to simply understand your own point of view. It is equally, if not more important, to understand and never underestimate your opponent. It is important to understand that your opponent feels about his opinion as strongly as you feel about yours. Do not put down your opponent's ideas. Show politely that you understand, but that your opinion is different.

Throughout an argument, it is important to listen. Listening carefully and asking relevant questions show that you are truly involved in the discussion and allow you to receive important information that will eventually lead to an outcome. Be sure to listen with an open mind, even if you believe the other side is wrong.

Always keep your emotions under control. When arguments get emotionally-heated, both sides may lose control and the discussion process breaks down. No matter how strongly you feel about a topic, keep a calm voice. Sometimes it may even help to take a deep breath and count to ten.

Finally, accept the fact that some arguments do not have a clear-cut outcome. Know when enough is enough, and simply agree to disagree.

A) From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer: (5x 10=50 Marks)

- facts
 - measures
 - impression
 - preparation
30. The underlined word 'fundamental' in the 2nd paragraph means:
- strange
 - flexible
 - necessary
 - complicated
31. To be prepared for an argument means:
- to attack your opponent's ideas
 - to get facts about your topic and know it well
 - to control what actually happens during an argument
 - to get emotional while defending your opinion
32. According to the passage, which of the following is NOT TRUE?
- In some situations, we will have to defend our own opinions.
 - How we present our case leaves a lasting impression on others.
 - We can disagree with others without showing disrespect.
 - All arguments must have clear-cut outcomes.

B) With reference to the passage, answer the following questions: (4 x 15=60 Marks)

33. What shouldn't you do in a serious discussion?

VII- Summary Making (60 Marks)

Read the following passage, then do as required:

Writing is one of the most important inventions of humanity. It allows us to record our history, ideas and discoveries. As writing developed, so did writing tools. The early cavemen used animal hair brushes to paint pictures on cave walls. The pictures usually told stories about their hunts. After several centuries, the Egyptians invented a simple kind of pen made of reed, which is a tall plant like grass. Later, the Chinese used metal tools to carve their characters into turtle shells and cattle bones. After many decades, people developed different writing tools such as fountain pens and ballpoint pens with tiny ink tanks in them. Only time will tell what writing tools our children and grandchildren will be using in the future.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarise and paraphrase the passage above in answer to the following question: (4X15=60 Marks)

VI- Reading Comprehension (110 Marks)

110

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Seventy percent of our planet is covered by one huge, continuous body of seawater – the ocean. It holds 1.35 billion cubic kilometres of water. Nearly half of the ocean is more than 3 kilometres deep. The Mariana Trench in the western Pacific Ocean is 11 kilometres below sea level. It is the deepest known point of the ocean. But there may be deeper points that we have not seen, as we have only explored five percent of the ocean floor till now.

The government of Canada suggested the idea of World Ocean Day at the Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro in 1992. In 2008, the United Nations (UN) officially recognised the date and it has been growing ever since, from 100 events in 2008 to over a thousand events in more than 120 countries ten years later. The day is celebrated in a variety of ways, including special events at aquariums and zoos, beach and river clean-ups, school activities, conservation programmes, art contests and film festivals.

One of the main aims of the World Ocean Day is to remind people of the important role the ocean plays in our lives. In fact, the ocean is home to the majority of plants and animals on Earth, from the smallest animal to the blue whale. The ocean provides us with food, 70 percent of the oxygen we breathe and medicines as well as transport. No matter where you live on the planet, no matter how far from the sea, your life relies on the ocean.

The most urgent problem facing the ocean at the moment is plastic pollution. Reducing one-use plastic items, including plastic bags, sandwich boxes and plastic water bottles, has been an important theme for World Ocean Day for a number of years. Climate change and rising ocean temperatures are also a huge problem. Rising ocean temperatures have a direct influence on weather patterns. They are seen as partly responsible for an increase in extreme weather conditions.

On World Ocean Day, wear blue, go on a march, find a beach or river clean-up near you, organise a local event, print a poster and put it in your window, or use the hashtag #worldoceanday on social media. There are so many things you can do on the 8th June to join in the celebrations, to remind people about the importance of the ocean in our lives and to make a difference!

- a. plastic bags
- b. sandwich boxes

30. The underlined word “relies on” in the 3rd paragraph is closest in meaning to:

- a. carries on
- b. turns on
- c. depends on

I grew up in a small farming town in the American Midwest, Ohio. It was the 1970s, and my family lived in an old three-storey house on a piece of land on a quiet, tree-lined street. It was one of those small towns where everyone knew each other, and people seldom even bothered to lock their doors.

There was nothing special about my childhood. It was the childhood of thousands of other kids, growing up in a small town in the rural U.S. My friends and I ran barefoot all summer long. We swam in the rivers and ponds, and played hide-and-seek in the woods. It was a safe, simple, and peaceful way to grow up.

In my teens, I started to realise that there was a whole world outside of our little town. The more I learned about that world, the more I craved to leave, to go out on my own, explore, and create my own story. After graduating from university, I did just that. I packed my bags, travelled halfway around the world, and never looked back.

I have lived in Tokyo, Japan, for over twenty years now. For the most part, it has been an amazing adventure, and I am thrilled every day to wake up and know that I am a part of one of the world's biggest and most exciting cities.

Over the years, I have only returned to Ohio a few times for weddings, funerals, or the occasional side trip when I happen to be in another part of the U.S. for business or some other reason. It is always wonderful to catch up with family and old friends, to spend most of the time talking with mom, and eat her cooking. In the morning, I wander around the countryside to fill my lungs with the fresh air.

I returned to my hometown this past summer. The trip was only ten days long, and besides visiting family and friends, it was boring as usual. But as I looked around the place where I had grown up, I realised something. Even though I have travelled thousands of miles over the years, even though I now spend my days using a language my family cannot understand, and even though I now call a place on the other side of the planet, 'home,' there will always be a part of that quiet, little Ohio town in me. Somehow, just knowing that feels really great.

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Bob had been the top salesman at Motor Parts for years. He had many clients. His clients loved him for his friendly manner and his honesty, and Bob felt that the world was his.

Then the world started changing around him. It happened when the other salesmen started using emails to deal with clients. Then his sales started decreasing. Many of his old clients retired and were replaced by young men. These new faces asked for his email address. Bob said that emails could never replace the confidence of a handwritten letter.

Rick was Bob's manager. To him, Rick was a great man. They played golf together, but Rick's wife got sick and he retired. Rick was replaced by Mike. Mike was not as understanding of Bob's weaknesses as Rick had been. Rick hated computers just like Bob. Mike was from the new school. As sales chief, he issued company smart phones to every salesman. When Bob did not send emails, take photos of signed purchase orders, or reply to Mike's text messages, Mike became impatient with him.

One night, Bob came home in a gloomy mood. Mike was angry after Bob had lost a few more clients, and Bob felt that the world is no longer a happy place. Jack, Bob's son, asked his father what was wrong. Bob attempted to keep his troubles from his son, but that night he couldn't help but to speak out. Jack tried to listen carefully, but he didn't know anything about motor parts, salesmanship, or Mike's problem. But Jack was satisfied to know how to work a mobile phone.

Jack spent the next month teaching his father how to use his company phone. He started with his dad by playing games so that he could learn basic skills. Over the next few weeks, they worked on sending text messages. Jack was happy about what he was doing to his father. Then he trained Bob on taking pictures. Bob then learnt attaching pictures to text messages. Bob was steadily learning. Then Bob worked with his son on filling orders for his clients through a purchase system accessed from his mobile phone.

Soon Bob began applying the skills that his son had taught him to his business. Bob was stunned at how technology simplified many of his past problems. As his sales climbed and grew better, Bob couldn't believe that it had taken him this long to adopt such useful technology.

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Bob had been the top salesman at Motor Parts for years. He had many clients. His clients loved him for his friendly manner and his honesty, and Bob felt that the world was his.

Then the world started changing around him. It happened when the other salesmen started using emails to deal with clients. Then his sales started decreasing. Many of his old clients retired and were replaced by young men. These new faces asked for his email address. Bob said that emails could never replace the confidence of a handwritten letter.

Rick was Bob's manager. To him, Rick was a great man. They played golf together, but Rick's wife got sick and he retired. Rick was replaced by Mike. Mike was not as understanding of Bob's weaknesses as Rick had been. Rick hated computers just like Bob. Mike was from the new school. As sales chief, he issued company smart phones to every salesman. When Bob did not send emails, take photos of signed purchase orders, or reply to Mike's text messages, Mike became impatient with him.

One night, Bob came home in a gloomy mood. Mike was angry after Bob had lost a few more clients, and Bob felt that the world is no longer a happy place. Jack, Bob's son, asked his father what was wrong. Bob attempted to keep his troubles from his son, but that night he couldn't help but to speak out. Jack tried to listen carefully, but he didn't know anything about motor parts, salesmanship, or Mike's problem. But Jack was satisfied to know how to work a mobile phone.

Jack spent the next month teaching his father how to use his company phone. He started with his dad by playing games so that he could learn basic skills. Over the next few weeks, they worked on sending text messages. Jack was happy about what he was doing to his father. Then he trained Bob on taking pictures. Bob then learnt attaching pictures to text messages. Bob was steadily learning. Then Bob worked with his son on filling orders for his clients through a purchase system accessed from his mobile phone.

Soon Bob began applying the skills that his son had taught him to his business. Bob was stunned at how technology simplified many of his past problems. As his sales climbed and grew better, Bob couldn't believe that it had taken him this long to adopt such useful technology.

VI- Reading Comprehension And Summary Making (150 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Parents should refer their child's physical and behavioural problems to doctors. Depending on this belief, the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) that takes care of children's health has recommended that doctors, during routine medical check-ups, ask about children's use of the media. This will help to identify the child emotional and physical health threats.

Many times parents have received complaints from the school about their child's aggressive behaviour. Often, this has been referred to the family doctor rather than the behavioural psychologist. "You look at the history and then note that the child has not only been sitting in front of the TV for hours watching violent shows but also playing dangerous computer games. At the least, this is something to start with," says a doctor at the AAP. "The child could be modelling violent behaviour and the parents are unaware of it," says another doctor.

Another related problem is obesity. This problem annoys many parents. After talking to the child, the doctor discovers that the child has spent hours watching TV and video and not getting enough exercise. "It's another way where media habits can affect health," says another doctor.

The AAP recommends that two hours of good TV or video shows a day for older children is enough. However, as far as children below two years should not be allowed to watch any TV. They recommended that parents must take their kids and play around, in addition, parents should choose their kids programmes carefully. The AAP proved that excessive media viewing can lead to other side effects like aggression to peers or adults, poor grades, and bad eating habits.

Critics, on the other hand, viewed that media is a fatal weapon in which parents have to supervise their children watching hours. They say that at present, parents seem to be occupied with life to the extent that they are unable to find enough time for other bigger concerns in life. These critics say that it is advisable to parents to spend more time with their children, supervise them, and watch over their viewing habits.

It is a fact that much lies in the hands of parents. Although the media has a responsible role to play, the home plays an overall important role in providing the right foundations in life for a child.
